BRAN NEW GET RICH QUICK SCHEME DISCOVERED

Wild Horses in Northern Arizona Used as Basis for Fleecing Innocent Stock Buyers of the East.

A brand new "get-rich-quick" scheme has come to light in Omaha, where J. S. Smith and two companions have been arrested by federal authorities on a charge of conspiracy to defraud, says the St. Louis Post-Democrat. The men are under bonds while the district attorney is searching the code to find a law to fit the case. The scheme is particularly unique and is said to have netted thousands of dollars.

Initially, the victims are persuaded to purchase range horses, subject to "range delivery"—that is, the buyer must catch his own horses. This is an unusual method of purchasing western horses and creates no suspicion upon the part of the victim.

The horses are represented as being on a range in Arizona and the price quoted is ridiculously low. The victim is given a bill of sale calling from horses from three to six years old, giving a general outline of the section of the country where they are to be caught. In all cases so far this is Coconino county, Arizona.

The horses are there, as described in the bill of sale, and the purchaser is at liberty to catch his horses, place them on cars and get them to market. But so far the government agents have not found a man who has been able to catch a horse. Coconino county is as big as all outdoors and the horses are a shade wilder than the proverbial "buck."

They are the "wild horses" of the western plains. They are the descendants of those which escaped from the Spanish conquerors and for nearly 400 years have been known as master.

In early days the Navajo and other southwestern Indians had ways of running down the young colts and raising them to maturity. But it always has been impossible to catch the horses, once they have grown old enough to have full strength and speed. With hundreds of miles of wild country over which these horses can run, the purchaser stands little chance of catching them. In addition, they have a disposition akin to hyena.

Smith and his associates assert they own a bunch of these horses and that their brand will be found on them if any one cares to investigate. So far no one has been able to disprove their claims. The brands may be there but inasmuch as none of the buyers have within miles and miles of a hand of these horses, they cannot deny the declaration.

Three others are named in the complaint, but have not been arrested. A. G. Perry of Atkinson, Neb., is accused of being implicated. But the government agents are at sea deciding under what statute they shall prosecute.

One of the victims told this story in the United States district attorney's office. "I contracted for eighty head and was to go to Arizona and catch them on the range. Smith told me they were wild and that it would be no easy job, but I knew a lot about horses. I've cut out range horses hundreds and thousands of times and I didn't believe there was a horse on the prairie that I couldn't get."

Armed with my bill of sale, I went down to Flagstaff, Arizona, and prepared to pick up my horses. I was to have eighty between the ages of three and eight years, and could take my pick of any of those belonging to Smith.

I noticed a gang of loafers at the livery stable in Flagstaff smiling when I hired an outfit. There was a camp wagon and half a dozen men. I thought it would take us about three days to get the best of the horses on the range, so I engaged the outfit for that length of time.

"We were on the range for more than I care to admit. We saw wild horses, and they certainly were wild. In fact, they were but clouds of dust.

I worked around the country with the crew eating their heads off and finally it dawned on me there was something wrong.

"Those horses were so wild a fellow would have to hire a brigade of cavalry to surround them. When I became convinced of that we went back to Flagstaff. As our outfit entered the town we met another going out to catch a bunch of range horses," I explained the "snuck." I let him go. I saw him a week later. He didn't have any horses. He saw the dust just like I did.

"These animals have been sold dozens of times, but no one ever catches them. We suckers all had the same experience. There are horses there, all right. I don't know whether or not they belong to Smith. In fact, they are so wild they belong to any one who gets them."

"I played the game, fell sucker and lost. But the next man that sells me horses in Arizona will have to eat the animal himself."

Rough Roads and High Freight Charges make Fifty Pound Limit a Boom to Mountain People. Spring Round up Starts.

Special Correspondence to the Herald

Cuba, N. M., May 7.—Cuba is taking advantage of the parcel post law. It is now being necessary for the mail contractor to send from one to two heavy wagon loads of mail each week. The roads being bad and the freighters slow, farming makes it difficult to source freighters and merchants are making the most of the 50-pound law.

County Superintendent Bonham Montoya, accompanied by Dr. Hastings of ceramics, made a trip through Cuba and the surrounding country. In the interests of the vacation law the post office.

The E. A. Mier round up will start about the tenth of this month. The men will be assisted in cow boys from the Buckner and Trinity area.

Mariano Otero passed through from his ranch at Haynes to the bank location where his brother Fred Otero is at work.

Outside visitors in Cuba the past week were Andrews, Young and Hatch, of the forest service, S. B. Coons of Aztec, N. M.; Dr. Hastings and Superintendent Montoya of Bernardo; Dr. Fish and Alfred Fish of San Jose.

Visitors to Cuba and vicinity have had much difficulty in securing hotel accommodations, through the summer months. A dining room has now been opened up in a room adjoining the Staples Mercantile company's store, which will be in charge of Mr. Houshouser. Camp, house and sleeping quarters have also been provided, which will prove a boon to the traveling public.

Ray Coon arrived from Aztec today to take charge of the Union Bros sheep. Sherman Coon will leave immediately for Aztec to resume his duties in the Taylor drug store.

NEW FORD CAR IS CREATED EVERY 24 SECONDS

Great Ford Plant Reaches Almost Superhuman Production of Eleven Hundred and Seventy Cars per Day.

Bethel, Mich., May 11.—Take out your watch. Follow the second hand around the minute circle. Every time it ticks off twenty-four seconds a new Ford car comes into being.

The month of April was another record-breaker at the Ford factory in Detroit. Thirty thousand four hundred and two complete sets were built and shipped during the month which had twenty-six working days.

A little mental arithmetic says that the mean daily production of about eleven hundred and seventy cars. It shows that approximately one hundred and forty-four Fords were built each hour. It shows that almost twenty-four seconds elapsed between the time one complete car left the factory doors until another followed it.

Of course these figures are based on an eight-hour working day. The assembling department of the Ford factory works but one shift of eight hours. Other departments of the factory work three shifts of eight hours in order to keep the assembling department going at top speed.

The first seven months of the company's fiscal year have seen the production of more than one hundred forty-five thousand complete model T's. Every gun in the firm of the calendar year has seen the hand up new production record. In January twenty-three thousand nine hundred thirty-six Fords were built and shipped. This was the first record smashing month of the year. February passed January with a production of twenty-four thousand six hundred cars. Then came March with an output of more than eleven hundred cars a day. Twenty-eight thousand seven hundred forty cars were built and shipped in March. And then the April production topped March by two thousand.

It will be seen from the above figures that the demand this year for Fords is greater than ever. It should be borne in mind that every Ford is shipped as soon as it is finished. It should also be borne in mind that despite this big production the factory is many thousands of cars behind the sales force. All indications are that the demand will be as far in excess of the supply this year as in years past.

CITY HALL FLIES BIG NEW AMERICAN FLAG

There is a big new flag flying over the incomplete city hall. City Clerk Thomas Hughes found the flag among the effects left by former City Clerk Gooch but it wasn't on his inventory. Mr. Hughes decided that the flag couldn't serve a better purpose than flying from above, the municipal capitol, so it was run to the top of a tall flagpole and flung to the breeze.

Proud Recollection.

"You seem rather elated this morning," said Mr. Meshton. "Last night my wife mistook me for a burglar. It's the only time in my life that Henrietta was actually afraid of me."
